IN THE HIGH COURT OF HIMACHAL PRADESH, SHIMLA Cr.MMO No.438 of 2024 Date of Decision: 11.06.2024 .

Rasham Ranjan
SharmaPetitioner Versus State of H.P. & another ... Respondents
Coram:

Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sandeep Sharma, Judge.

Whether approved for reporting? 1 For the Petitioner: r Mr. Virbahadur Verma, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Rajan Kahol, Mr. Vishal Panwar and Mr. B.C.Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, with Mr. Ravi Chauhan, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.1/State.

Mr. Mukul Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

Sandeep Sharma, Judge(oral):

By way of instant petition filed under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioner for quashing of FIR No. 7 of 2023, dated 16.02.2023, under Section 498-A read with Section 34 of IPC, registered at Women Police Station, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh as well as consequent proceedings pending adjudication in the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate First Class-II, Solan District Solan, H.P., i.e. No.47 of 2024, tilted as State versus Veena Sharma, on the basis of Whether the reporters of the local papers may be allowed to see the judgment?

the compromise arrived inter se parties (Annexure P-2), whereby both the parties have resolved to settle their dispute amicably inter se .

2. Precisely, the facts of the case, as emerge from the record are that the marriage interse petitioner and respondent No.2 was solemnized on 18.03.2016 as per Hindu rites and ceremonies and out of their wedlock, one female child was born on 03.03.2007.

Since, petitioner and respondent No.2 were unable to live together for long on account of matrimonial discord, respondent No.2 started living separately with her parents since November, 2020. On 16.02.2023, respondent No.2 lodged FIR against the petitioner, alleging therein that he not only maltreated her, but also demanded dowry. Police after having conducted the investigation filed the charge sheet in the competent court of law, but before the same could be taken to its logical end, petitioner entered into the compromise with respondent No.2, whereby they resolved to settle their dispute amicably interse them. As per agreed terms, both petitioner and respondent No.2 decided to get their marriage dissolved by way of mutual consent and in that regard, they have already filed a petition under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act in the competent court of law i.e. Family Court at Solan. As per the agreed terms, petitioner had undertaken to pay sum of Rs. 12.00 lac as permanent alimony to respondent No.2 and aforesaid amount already stands paid to respondent No.2.

3. Though, compromise placed on record clearly reveals factum with regard to compromise arrived interse parties, but yet this Court with a view to ascertain the correctness and genuineness of the compromise placed on record, deemed it necessary to cause presence of the parties.

4. Pursuant to the order passed by this Court, both petitioner and respondent No.2 are present in Court. They, on oath stated before this Court that they of their own volition and without there being any external pressure have entered into the compromise, whereby they have decided to get their marriage dissolved by way of mutual consent. They stated that they have already filed a petition under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act for dissolution of their marriage by way of mutual consent. Respondent No.2, Smt. Neha Sharma, fairly admitted factum with regard to her having received 12.00 lac rupees, agreed to be paid by the petitioner as permanent alimony. She further stated that on account of amicable settlement arrived interse parties, she shall have no objection in case the prayer made on behalf of the petitioner for quashing of the FIR No. 7 of 2023, dated 16.02.2023 lodged at her behest, is accepted and petitioner is acquitted of the charges framed against him. Statements of both the parties are taken on record.

5. Mr. Rajan Kahol, learned Additional Advocate General, after having heard the aforesaid statement made by respondent No.2, fairly stated that no fruitful purpose would be served in case FIR as well as consequent proceedings sought to be quashed are allowed to sustain. He further stated that otherwise also, chances of conviction of petitioner-accused are very remote and bleak in view of the statement made by respondent No.2 and as such, respondent-State shall have no objection in case the prayer made in the petition is allowed.

6. The question which now needs consideration is "whether FIR's in question can be ordered to be quashed when Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 SCC 466 has specifically held that power under S. 482 Cr.P.C is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc., since such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society?"

7. At this stage, it would be relevant to take note of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh (supra), whereby the Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred to above clearly depicts .

that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable and where the parties have settled the matter between themselves, however, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. In para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down certain parameters to be followed, while compounding offences.

8. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggests that such a power is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial .

relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves. Aforesaid view taken by Hon'ble Apex Court has been further reiterated in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and anr. (2012) 10 SCC 303.

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case Gian Singh supra has held that power of the High Court in quashing of the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent power is distinct and different from the power of a Criminal Court to compound the offences under Section 320 Cr.PC. Even in the judgment passed in Narinder Singh's case, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while exercising inherent power of quashment under Section 482 Cr.PC the Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime and its social impact and it cautioned the Courts not to exercise the power for quashing proceedings in heinous and serious offences of mental depravity, murder, rape, dacoity etc. However subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dimpley Gujral and Ors. vs. Union Territory through Administrator, UT, Chandigarh and Ors. (2013) 11 SCC 497 has further reiterated that continuation of criminal proceedings would tantamount to abuse of process of law because the alleged offences are not heinous offences showing extreme depravity nor are they against the society. Hon'ble Apex Court further observed that when offences of a personal nature,

peace and amity between the two sides.

10. Hon'ble Apex Court in its judgment dated 4th October, 2017, titled as Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others versus State of Gujarat and Another, passed in Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016, reiterated the principles/parameters laid down in Narinder Singh's case supra for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in (2019) 5 SCC 688, titled as State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Laxmi Narayan , has held as under:-

" 15. Considering the law on the point and the other decisions of this Court on the point, referred to hereinabove, it is observed and held as under:

15.1 That the power conferred under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings for the non-compoundable offences under Section 320 of the Code can be exercised having overwhelmingly and predominantly the civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes and when the parties have resolved the entire dispute amongst themselves;

15.2. Such power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involved heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society;

15.3 Similarly, such power is not to be exercised for the offences under the special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender;

15.4 Offences under Section 307 IPC and the Arms Act etc. would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone, and therefore, the criminal proceedings for the offence under Section 307 IPC .

and/or the Arms Act etc. which have a serious impact on the society cannot be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482 of the Code, on the ground that the parties have resolved their entire dispute amongst themselves. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to framing the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. However, such an exercise by the High Court would be permissible only after the evidence is collected after investigation and the charge sheet is filed/charge is framed and/or during the trial. Such exercise is not permissible when the matter is still under investigation. Therefore, the ultimate conclusion in paragraphs 29.6 and 29.7 of the decision of this Court in the case of Narinder Singh (supra) should be read harmoniously and to be read as a whole and in the circumstances stated hereinabove;

15.5 While exercising the power under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings in respect of non- compoundable offences, which are private in nature and do not have a serious impact on society, on the ground that there is a settlement/ compromise between the victim and the offender, the High Court is required to consider the antecedents of the accused; the conduct of the accused, namely, whether the accused was absconding and why he was absconding, how he had managed with the complainant to enter into a compromise etc.

12. In the case at hand, offences alleged to have been committed by the petitioner are petty offence, coupled with the fact that the petitioner and respondent No. 2 have compromised the matter and as such, no fruitful purpose would be served in continuing with criminal prosecution of the petitioner. Otherwise also, there are bleak and remote chances of conviction of accused and as such, this court sees no impediment in accepting the prayer made by petitioner .

for quashing of FIR.

13. Since, it is not in dispute rather stands duly established on record that the parties have agreed to dissolve their marriage by way of mutual consent and in that regard, they have already taken steps by filing appropriate proceedings in appropriate Court of law, this Court is of the view that learned Principal Judge, Family Court at Solan, while considering the prayer made on behalf of the parties may waive of the cooling period, especially when it is not in dispute that marriage has irreparably broken and there is no possibility of rapprochement.

14. Since both the parties are living separately for more than 3 ½ years, 'cooling period' of six months can be waived of when there is no possibility of rapprochement and marriage inter se them has broken beyond repair. This court taking note of various judgments of Hon'ble Apex court has repeatedly held that there is no requirement of 'cooling period' of six months in the cases where marriage has broken beyond repair and there is no possibility of parties living together. Reliance in this regard is placed upon judgment rendered by this Court in Bharti Kapoor v . Des Raj, CMPMO No. 271 of 2017, decided on 31.10.2018, wherein it has been held as under:

8. Accordingly, for the reasons and circumstances narrated herein above, present petition is ordered to be converted into a petition under Section 13B of Hindu Marriage Act. Since both the parties are living separately for the last many years and they have been litigating with each other, statutory period of six months as envisaged under Section 13B of the .

Act for grant of divorce by way of mutual consent, can be waived, especially when there is no possibility of rapprochement of the parties and marriage has broken beyond repair. In this regard, it would be apt to take note of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Veena vs. State (Government of NCT of Delhi) and another, (2011)14 SCC 614, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

12." We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and talked to the parties. The appellant has filed a divorce petition under Section 13(1)(a) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, being HMA No.397/2008 which is pending before the Court of Sanjeev Mattu, Additional District Judge, Karkardooma Courts, Delhi. In the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, we deem it appropriate to transfer the said divorce petition to this Court and take the same on Board. The said petition is converted into one under Section 13B of the Hindu Marriage Act and we grant divorce to the parties by mutual consent."

Reliance is also placed on a judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Priyanka Khanna v. Amit Khanna, (2011) 15 SCC 612, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"7. We also see from the trend of the litigations pending between the parties that the relationship between the couple has broken down in a very nasty manner and there is absolutely no possibility of a rapprochement between them even if the matter was to be adjourned for a period of six months as stipulated under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act. 8. We also see from the record that the first litigation had been filed by the respondent husband on 2.6.2006 and a petition for divorce had also been filed by him in the year, 2007. We therefore, feel that it would be in the interest of justice that the period of six months should be waived in view of the above facts."

10. In the instant case also, statutory period of six months deserves to be waived keeping in view the fact that the marriage between the parties has broken beyond repair and there seems to be no possibility of parties living together. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.11158 of 2017 [arising out of Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.20184 of 2017] titled as Amardeep Singh vs. Harveen Kaur, decided on 12.09.2017, has held as under:-

"13. Learned amicus submitted that waiting period enshrined under Section 13(B)2 of the Act is directory and can be waived by the court where proceedings are pending, in exceptional situations. This view is supported by judgments of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in K. Omprakash vs. K. Nalini 10, Karnataka High Court in *Roopa Reddy vs. Prabhakar Reddy*11, Delhi High Court in *Dhanjit Vadra vs. Smt. Beena Vadra*12 and Madhya Pradesh High Court in *Dinesh Kumar Shukla vs. Smt. Neeta*13. Contrary view has been taken by Kerala High Court in M. Krishna Preetha vs. Dr. Jayan 10 AIR 1986 AP 167 (DB) 11 AIR 1994 Kar 12 (DB) 12 AIR 1990 Del 146 13 AIR 2005 MP 106 (DB) Moorkkanatt14. It was submitted that Section 13B(1) relates to jurisdiction of the Court and the petition is maintainable only if the parties are living separately for a period of one year or more and if they have not been able to live together and have agreed that the marriage be dissolved. Section 13B(2) is procedural. He submitted that the discretion to waive the period is a .

guided discretion by consideration of interest of justice where there is no chance of reconciliation and parties were already separated for a longer period or contesting proceedings for a period longer than the period mentioned in Section 13B(2). Thus, the Court should consider the questions:

- i) How long parties have been married?
- ii) How long litigation is pending?
- iii) How long they have been staying apart?
- iv) Are there any other proceedings between the parties?
- v) Have the parties attended mediation/ conciliation?
- vi) Have the parties arrived at genuine settlement which takes care of alimony, custody of child or any other pending issues between the parties?

14 AIR 2010 Ker 157

14. The Court must be satisfied that the parties were living separately for more than the statutory period and all efforts at mediation and reconciliation have been tried and have failed and there is no chance of reconciliation and further waiting period will only prolong their agony.

15. We have given due consideration to the issue involved. Under the traditional Hindu Law, as it stood prior to the statutory law on the point, marriage is a sacrament and cannot be dissolved by consent. The Act enabled the court to dissolve marriage on statutory grounds. By way of amendment in the year 1976, the concept of divorce by mutual consent was introduced. However, Section 13B(2) contains a bar to divorce being granted before six months of time elapsing after filing of the divorce petition by mutual consent. The said period was laid down to enable the parties to have a rethink so that the court grants divorce by mutual consent only if there is no chance for reconciliation.

16. The object of the provision is to enable the parties to dissolve a marriage by consent if the marriage has irretrievably broken down and to enable them to rehabilitate them as per available options. The amendment was inspired by the thought that forcible perpetuation of status of matrimony between unwilling partners did not serve any purpose. The object of the cooling off the period was to safeguard against a hurried decision if there was otherwise possibility of differences being reconciled. The object was not to perpetuate a purposeless marriage or to prolong the agony of the parties when there was no chance of reconciliation. Though every effort has to be made to save a marriage, if there are no chances of reunion and there are chances of fresh rehabilitation, the Court should not be powerless in enabling the parties to have a better option.

17. In determining the question whether provision is mandatory or directory, language alone is not always decisive. The Court has to have regard to the context, the subject matter and the object of the provision. This principle, as formulated in Justice G.P. Singh's .

"Principles of Statutory Interpretation" (9th Edn., 2004), has been cited with approval in *Kailash versus Nanhku and ors.*¹⁵ as follows:

15 (2005) 4 SCC 480 "The study of numerous cases on this topic does not lead to formulation of any universal rule except this that language alone most often is not decisive, and regard must be had to the context, subject-matter and object of the statutory provision in question, in determining whether the same is mandatory or directory. In an oft-quoted passage Lord Campbell said: 'No universal rule can be laid down as to whether mandatory enactments shall be considered directory only or obligatory with an implied nullification for disobedience. It is the duty of courts of justice to try to get at the real intention of the legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute to be considered.' " 'For ascertaining the real intention of the legislature', points out Subbarao, J. 'the court may consider inter alia, the nature and design of the statute, and the consequences which would follow from construing it the one way or the other; the impact of other provisions whereby the necessity of complying with the provisions in question is avoided; the circumstances, namely, that the statute provides for a contingency of the non-compliance with the provisions; the fact that the non-compliance with the provisions is or is not visited by some penalty; the serious or the trivial consequences, that flow therefrom; and above all, whether the object of the legislation will be defeated or furthered'. If object of the enactment will be defeated by holding the same directory, it will be construed as mandatory, whereas if by holding it mandatory serious general inconvenience will be created to innocent persons without very much furthering the object of enactment, the same will be construed as directory." 18. Applying the above to the present situation, we are of the view that where the Court dealing with a matter is satisfied that a case is made out to waive the statutory period under Section 13B(2), it can do so after considering the following :

- i) the statutory period of six months specified in Section 13B(2), in addition to the statutory period of one year under Section 13B(1) of separation of parties is already over before the first motion itself;
- ii) all efforts for mediation/conciliation including efforts in terms of Order XXXIIA Rule 3 CPC/Section 23(2) of the Act/Section 9 of the Family Courts Act to reunite the parties have failed and there is no likelihood of success in that direction by any further efforts;

iii) the parties have genuinely settled their differences including alimony, custody of child or any other pending issues between the parties;

iv) the waiting period will only prolong their agony.

19. The waiver application can be filed one week after the first motion giving reasons for the prayer for waiver.

20. If the above conditions are satisfied, the waiver of the waiting period for the second motion will be in the discretion of the concerned Court.

21. Since we are of the view that the period mentioned in Section 13B(2) is not mandatory but directory, it will be open to the Court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case where there is no possibility of parties resuming cohabitation and there are chances of alternative rehabilitation."

15. It is quite apparent from the bare perusal of the aforesaid judgments passed by this court (supra) and Hon'ble Apex Court that the very object of aforesaid provision is to enable the parties to dissolve a marriage by consent, especially if marriage has broken irreparably and there is no possibility of rapprochement.

16. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra), FIR bearing No.7 of 2023, dated 16.02.2023, under Section 498-A read with Section 34 of IPC, registered at Women Police Station, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh as well as consequent proceedings pending adjudication in the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate First Class-II, Solan District Solan, H.P., i.e. case No.47 of 2024, tilted as State versus Veena Sharma, are quashed and set aside. Accused is acquitted of the charges framed against him.

17. Parties present in Court are directed to appear before the learned Principal Judge, Family Court at Solan on 12.06.2024, enabling it to prepone the date of the petition and pass appropriate orders in terms of aforesaid observations made by this Court. Since petitioner is to go aboard on account of his occupation, this Court hopes and trusts that learned Family Court without wasting further .

time shall proceed to pass order after recording the statement of the second motion.

18. The petition stands disposed of in the aforesaid terms, alongwith all pending applications.

The parties are permitted to produce copy of order downloaded from the High Court website and the trial Court shall not insist for certified copy of the order, however, it may verify the order from the High Court website or otherwise.
